Holding facility to help local koalas

Council has welcomed last week's $370,000 commitment from the NSW Government to build a koala holding facility at Pottsville.

The holding facility will allow researchers to conduct vaccine trials to tackle the disease chlamydia in koalas. Koala food trees will also be planted to provide the koalas food requirements.

The facility will be established on a 100-hectare site in Pottsville dedicated to koala habitat conservation which was purchased by the NSW Government last year. The land adjoins Council's Koala Beach bushland reserve and the Cudgen Nature Reserve.

Council will assist the Currumbin Wildlife Sanctuary to develop and operate the Pottsville koala sanctuary.

Senior Program Leader – Biodiversity, Scott Hetherington, said the ability to assist researchers and hasten the full use of a vaccine for chlamydia is vital to the recovery of the Tweed Coast endangered koala population.

"It will also benefit all of the more than 200 koalas from the northern rivers that Currumbin Wildlife Hospital treats each year," he said.

"Council is proud to have played a major role in the initiation of this project and welcomes the innovative approach to working across levels of government and even state borders in the interests of good outcomes for koalas."

The announcement is a component of the recently-announced $45 million NSW Koala Strategy, a long-term strategy to support at-risk populations across the State.

New life for old hall

The refurbished Kingscliff Community Hall, public amenities and visitor information centre will be completed this week, ticking off another important component of the Kingscliff Foreshore Revitalisation project.

While the project always included refurbishment of the community hall to construct fully accessible toilets and open the hall up to the new Rowan Robinson Park, initially it was anticipated that the old amenities building and caretakers lodgings from the Holiday Park might be demolished and a new toilet block constructed in the new park.

However, Manager Recreation Services Stewart Brawley explained that a conservation management plan undertaken for the buildings identified these buildings as having high conservation value and so they were retained and refurbished into public toilets.

"While there was some initial scepticism within the community about the heritage value of the buildings, now that they have been refurbished the legacy of retaining the buildings has become clear," Mr Brawley said.

"The old caretakers building that will now house the visitor information centre provides the starkest of contrasts. The original building has had numerous additions over the years, and when stripped back to the original footprint and façade it becomes clear how the original building roofline tied in with the rest of the buildings and how attractive the original façade was.

"Refurbishing an old building to meet current standards and replacing all of the old wiring and services while also preserving the buildings heritage values hasn't been without its challenges, but the final result preserves a part of Kingscliff's heritage for future generations while providing a unique facility for Kingscliff," he said.

Fitting out is still required before the hall will be available for bookings (www.tweed.nsw.gov.au/communitybuildings) from 1 July.

With the opening of the new toilet facilities, the old toilets underneath the surf club will be closed and this area handed back to the surf club.

Winning art on display

Tweed Regional Gallery's biennial Border Art Prize opening was celebrated by a large crowd at M-Arts Precinct in Murwillumbah on Saturday 26 May.

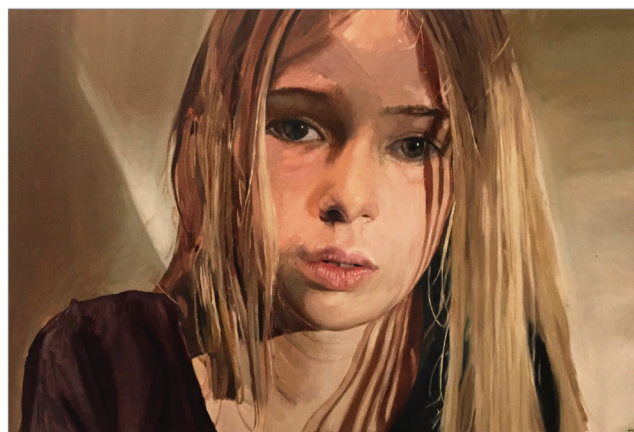

Winner Trinity Leonard from Lismore Shire was in attendance to receive the $3,000 first prize funded by Tweed Shire Council. Her entry, an oil painting titled Hannah, immediately caught both judges' eye and they returned to it after viewing all entries.

The Friends of the Gallery funded the second prize of $1,500, which was awarded to another painting in oil, titled The Mother, by Byron artist Sabrina Simoni.

Third prize of $500, also funded by the Friends of the Gallery, was awarded to Jane Buchanan of the Byron Shire for Flooded Memories.

All winners can be viewed on the web at <http://artgallery.tweed.nsw.gov.au/PrizesAndAwards/BorderArtPrize>

The Border Art Prize is on show over two venues – Tweed Regional Gallery, 2 Mistral Road, Murwillumbah South and at M | Arts Precinct, 1 Brisbane Street, Murwillumbah – until Sunday 15 July.

2018 Border Art Prize $3000 winner Trinity Leonard's Hannah, 2018 oil on canvas 60 x 90cm.

Award nominations open

World champion triathlete Bill Chaffey highlighted the recent Commonwealth Games as a positive example of access and inclusion at an event, while speaking at the official launch of the sixth annual Tweed Shire Access and Inclusion Awards.

This year's nomination launch was held last week at Pottsville Beach Neighbourhood Centre, a Facility which is a previous winner of two major access and inclusion awards.

Speaking at the launch, Chaffey – who is the awards' patron – reflected on his experience at this year's Commonwealth Games on the Gold Coast, which he said were a great example of inclusion and one of his best sporting experiences.

"I hope my profile as an athlete will gain the attention of the community and make people think about making a nomination," Mr Chaffey said.

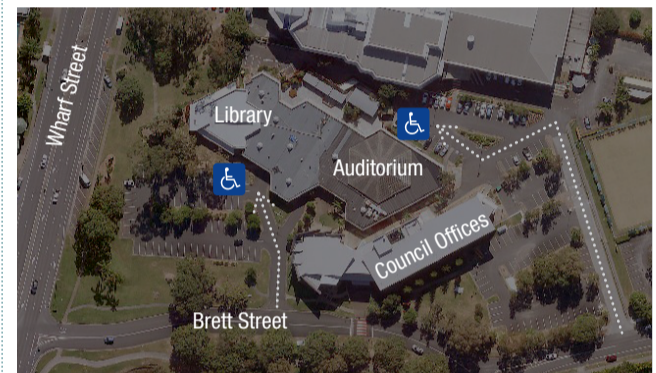

Council's Community Development Officer, Ageing and Disability, Karen Collins, said she encouraged people to nominate to show the community who is doing a great job for access and inclusion in the Tweed Shire.

"The awards have grown since they started in 2013 with more of the community becoming aware that being included is a basic right no matter who you are," Ms Collins said.

"Access means you can go where you want to in the community and inclusion means when you go out you feel welcome and are treated with respect. Your nomination sends a message that access and inclusion is important for the whole community."

To make a nomination, go to www.tweed.nsw.gov.au/AccessInclusionAwards. For more information or other ways to fill out the nomination form call Council on (02) 6670 2400.

Nominations are open until Friday 28 September 2018. Winners will be announced at an event at Seagulls Club on 3 December, which is International Day of People with Disability.

Map of the accessible car parking spaces at the library.

New accessible parking at Tweed Heads Library

Tweed Heads Civic Centre customers are reminded that there are two accessible car parking spaces at the rear of the new library.

These parking spaces can be reached by entering the Council precinct via Brett Street.

These spaces provide the best access to a pedestrian ramp that leads to the Library and Auditorium foyers and through to the Council Administration Building.

Council will install directional signage to the accessible parking bays as soon as practicable.

Future upgrades are planned to improve access and inclusion to these facilities.

Learn from nature at free farming workshop

Want to improve your soil without endless applications of mulch, compost and fertiliser? Give soil organisms the job of managing your fertiliser regime instead.

Council's Sustainable Agriculture Program and Tweed Landcare Inc. are offering a free workshop for primary producers, market gardeners and backyard growers at Cudgen on Tuesday 19 June.

The event will be facilitated by world-renowned ecologist Dr Wendy Seabrook, who will show you how to improve the ecological functions in your production systems and develop practical techniques for your crops and unique growing conditions. The day will involve a visit to a local farm to explore the concepts in more detail.

"Wendy has been working with growers throughout Australia and internationally to help them apply these practices, effectively reducing their costs, by bringing nature's free ecological services back to their farms", Eli Szandala, Program Leader – Sustainable Agriculture said.

"It makes sense to utilise the soil biota and natural processes which come at no cost to producers and actually improve soil health and productivity over time."

Bookings are essential by calling the Program Leader – Sustainable Agriculture on (02) 6670 2599.

Bray Park weir is temporarily narrowed using concrete blocks ahead of threatening high-tide events.

Protecting water supply

The second meeting of the Bray Park Weir Tidal Protection Project Reference Group (PRG) was held last week.

The PRG, consisting of community stakeholders, has the role of assisting Council to identify measures to mitigate the risk of saltwater contamination of the Tweed District Water Supply as occurred in August 2017.

The PRG members now have one month to discuss the issue with the communities they represent before they meet again to identify possible long-term mitigation measures.

Council is presently using concrete blocks to narrow the weir when a high-tide event is imminent.

At the request of the PRG, Council put procedures in place to alert landowners upstream of the weir of when the concrete blocks will be deployed. Anyone requiring that alert should register their details with wateradmin@tweed.nsw.gov.au (Subject: Weir alert). They will then receive an email alerting them to the fact that a potential overtopping event is imminent and the blocks will be deployed until the event and risk has passed.

Members of the community are invited to participate in the conversation around how we protect the Tweed District Water Supply from saltwater contamination by contacting a PRG member or visiting www.yoursaytweed.com.au/BrayParkWeir, where they can ask questions or join a forum discussion.

Contact details of the PRG members are available on the Your Say Tweed site.

You don't have to be over the speed limit to be driving too fast.

Drive to the conditions

Adjust your speed

Just because the road is signposted 80km/h does not mean you should drive at that speed. A safe speed is sometimes well below the posted speed limit. Adjust your speed to suit the prevailing road and weather conditions.

Scan the road and be alert

Scan the road for hazards, such as potholes, rough surfaces, fallen branches and wildlife. Even if you are familiar with the road, stay alert as road conditions can change quickly.

Access ALL AREAS

May edition

Access means you can go where you need to in the community. This includes into buildings, on transport, in parks and to events. It means there are toilets you can use. Inclusion means you feel part of the community and you get fair service. To tell us if there are barriers to access in the community contact Council at the Customer Service Centre on (02) 6670 2400 or email tsc@tweed.nsw.gov.au

Nominations open for 2018 Tweed Shire Access and Inclusion Awards

We want to show the community who is doing a great job for access and inclusion in Tweed Shire.

Businesses, organisations, community groups and individuals can be nominated for an award. To be eligible for nomination the nominee must:

- Provide services and/or operate a business in the Tweed Shire local government area.
- Show they have taken action to improve access and inclusion particularly for people with a disability, or with challenges related to ageing.
- Show their efforts to improve access and inclusion are above and beyond what would be expected as a usual part of their job or organisation.

To make a nomination go to www.tweed.nsw.gov.au/Hot_Topics and click on Access and Inclusion Awards. For more information or other ways to fill out the nomination form call Council on (02) 6670 2400

Nominations are open until Friday 28 September

Have Your Say – Community input for the next Access and Inclusion Plan

There is still time to have your say. Help us make the next plan by telling us what more we need to do to make our community accessible and inclusive.

There are a number of ways you can be involved including online, by phone and face to face. We want to hear from everyone interested in making our community inclusive and welcoming to all who live here or come as visitors.

You can fill out a survey by going to www.yoursaytweed.com.au or be part of the online forum. If you would like to talk to someone about access and inclusion in Tweed Shire you can call Council on (02) 6670 2400.
