

Be careful to avoid the curlews nesting at Cudgera Creek Park, Hastings Point.

Prime real estate for endangered couple

A critically endangered pair of Beach Stone-curlews have decided to nest at Cudgera Creek Park, Hastings Point – laying a single egg straight on the ground.

Now they haven't picked a great spot – right next to the playground/barbecue area at Cudgera Creek.

This is the first time Council has recorded Beach Stone-curlews breeding in the Tweed. And this pair are one of only eight breeding pairs in NSW.

So Council needs your help for this pair to successfully breed. You can help by:

- Keeping clear of the small temporary fenced area – please use other routes to access the creek
- Not lingering near the fence – if you see the bird rise off the nest, keep moving away, he or she will return quickly to the nest to protect the egg
- Remembering this is a dog exclusion zone – dogs and curlews don't mix

Let's talk about your open spaces and the rail trail

Rail Trail Project Director Iain Lonsdale and Project Manager Alex Manning are pictured talking to Philip Carr and Sam Quint at an Open Space Community Conversation in Uki about Stage 1 of the Northern Rivers Rail Trail from Murwillumbah to Crabbes Creek.

"I have heard both the concerns and enthusiasm for the rail trail from those attending Open Space Community Conversations, which is great as it will help us better understand who we need to work closely with in finalising the design with the winning contractor," Mr Lonsdale said.

Mr Lonsdale said there appeared to be good market interest in Council's advertised Expression of Interest (EOI) for the contractor pre-selection for the Design and Construct tender for the rail trail based on the number of companies that have downloaded the EOI documentation and made enquiries to Council. The EOI closes on 12 December 2018.

Since October, we've spoken to over 200 people about the Draft Open Space Strategy. We've been talking about local projects including skate parks, community gardens, playgrounds and footpaths.

We want to hear what you think about our plans for Tweed's open spaces. The next events include:

- 19 November 6pm – Crabbes Creek (includes Mooball)
- 20 November 6.30pm – Pottsville (includes Hastings Point)
- 26 November 6pm – Casuarina (includes Cudgen)
- 28 November 6pm – Bilambil

Book to attend at tweedshire.eventbrite.com.au

Recreation Planner Jodie Hewett talks about what's planned for open space in the Tweed Heads area at a Community Conversation last Thursday night.

Land slip closes road

Byrrill Creek Road has been closed about 5km from the Kyogle Road turnoff due to a land slip.

While every effort was being made to get the road stabilised and reopened early this week, it is highly likely that the road could be closed for between one and two weeks.

Council closed the road last Thursday after contractors working to repair a downside slip that occurred during Cyclone Debbie noticed cracks in the road pavement about 1.5 metres from the edge which were widening quickly, leaving the road unsafe and impassable.

The failure is west of Cedar Creek Road, allowing that community continued access in and out via Kyogle Road. Any residents west of the closure will have to travel a longer route via Tyalgum.

The contractors worked over the weekend in a bid to get the road stabilised and reopened as soon as possible. They are bringing more resources in to assist with the work and will place signage at the detour points.

Traffic control is currently on site turning vehicles around on both sides of the failure.

Recent vandalism to the new uprights under the fig trees bordering the playground in Murwillumbah's Knox Park is disappointing. It's not just about cost. These lights assist with safety and are valued by some of the more vulnerable people in our community. These uprights have been used in parks throughout the Tweed and it's the first time they've been damaged in this way. Please let Council or the police know if you witness acts of vandalism to public property.

NBN's work, not Council's

The night and day works on the National Broadband Network (NBN) which have been underway in Murwillumbah's main street for the past few weeks are not associated with Council.

Council's Director Engineering, David Oxenham, said NBN Co. and their contractors operate under the Telecommunications Act (1997), not through a Council approval process.

"They are only required to notify Council of proposed works through a Land Access Notice," Mr Oxenham said.

"In that notice, there is no information or approvals relating to hours of work – that's a matter for NBN. It is the responsibility of NBN Co. via its contractors to notify the community."

The solution to household problem waste

It's National Recycling Week and if you're moving house, renovating your home or just having a spring clean you'll probably have household problem waste such as unwanted paint, oils, batteries, fluorescent bulbs and gas bottles to dispose of.

The safe and environmentally friendly solution is to take them to your local Community Recycling Centre (CRC), located at the Stotts Creek Resource Recovery Centre.

There's no charge to drop off these items, most of which will be recycled or reused. Last year more than 209 tonnes of household problem waste was dropped off at the eight CRCs across the north coast and so was prevented from ending up in landfill.

This type of waste is only a problem if it is placed into household bins or illegally dumped on kerbsides, parks or reserves where it can be hazardous to people and the environment. However, the solution is simple. Anyone can take household quantities of up to 20 litres or 20 kilograms of these wastes to their Community Recycling Centre at any time of the year for free.

The Tweed CRC is located at Stotts Creek Resource Recovery Centre, Leddays Creek Road, Stotts Creek. Opening hours are Monday to Friday 7am–3.45pm; Saturday and Sunday 9am–3.45pm.

For more information contact Council on (02) 6670 7400 or visit www.tweed.nsw.gov.au/WasteDisposal

Problem waste items including paint, motor and cooking oils, batteries and a smoke detector being collected at home for free drop off at the Tweed CRC.

If you would like to report an illegal dumping incident you can either contact Council on 1300 292 872 or report it online at www.ridonline.epa.nsw.gov.au
