

Tweed Shire Council wishes to recognise the generations of the local Aboriginal people of the Bundjalung Nation who have lived in and derived their physical and spiritual needs from the forests, rivers, lakes and streams of this beautiful valley over many thousands of years as the traditional owners and custodians of these lands.

Clarrie Hall Dam storage level

Council is urging residents to watch their water consumption, as the level of Clarrie Hall Dam is dropping by 1.5 per cent per week.

Shorter showers needed as restrictions loom

The Tweed's only water storage at Clarrie Hall Dam is at 86 per cent capacity and falling a further 1.5 per cent every week, prompting Council to remind the community that we all have the power to take a shorter shower.

"Taking a shorter shower is the single biggest water-saving behaviour everyone can achieve and you don't need an egg timer, just your favourite four-minute song," Water Efficiency Engineer Elizabeth Seidl said.

"Press play, turn on the tap, soap up, wash off and be out before the song finishes."

To help find a favourite shower tune, search for the 'four-minute shower hits' playlist on Spotify.

On average, Tweed residents are still using 191 litres of water per person every day against a target of 160 litres and water restrictions will be implemented before Christmas if we don't get significant rain soon.

The water supply at Tyalgum is critically low and water restrictions will be imposed as early as this week, adding to the existing ban on water carting from both the Tyalgum and Uki water supplies.

"We had estimated the level of Clarrie Hall Dam to fall by one per cent a week but it's actually falling by 1.5 per cent a week. So our dam supply, which tops up the Tweed River for raw water extraction at Bray Park Weir, will not last as long as we had anticipated.

"Singing in the shower is perfectly acceptable; running out of water is not. Now is the time we can each make the biggest difference to how long our water supply lasts by cutting our unnecessary water usage."

To help residents save water, Council is ramping up its Target 160L campaign and asking the community to spread the message to do the Tweed a favour and become a water saver.

Residents wanting a visual reminder of the top tips to save water in both the house and the yard can pick up a handy fridge magnet from either of Council's offices at Murwillumbah and Tweed Heads. Those who have already stopped watering the garden can pick up a sign or sticker for posting in the front yard or on their letterbox advertising their water-saving effort. These items will be available early next week.

"We know that Tweed residents can use less water because in 2013 we achieved a daily average of 169 litres per person a day under our Target 170L campaign. Now, we need to do more," Ms Seidl said.

Asbestos testings kits take out the guesswork

November is National Asbestos Awareness Month and Tweed Shire Council is encouraging residents – particularly those who are looking at renovating – to find a licensed professional to take an asbestos sample test or to consider purchasing an 'asbestos testing kit' before making a start.

Asbestos test kits are available to Tweed residents at the cost price of only $47.20 through Council, in conjunction with North East Waste.

Asbestos can pose a health risk for the home owners but also for workers and staff at the waste facility who sort and process the waste.

The asbestos testing kits provide easy step-by-step instructions on how to take samples safely and are sent to a certified asbestos testing company, with the results of the test being emailed to the resident.

Seventy-eight samples have been tested through the program this year with 52 per cent testing positive – that's 41 samples identified as containing asbestos. By taking this simple and effective precaution, the risk for the homeowners, as well as workers and staff on site has reduced significantly.

There are some specific conditions for bringing asbestos to Stotts Creek Resource Recovery Centre (the tip), before you make the trip check www.tweed.nsw.gov.au/ResourceRecovery

For further information about asbestos management or asbestos testing kits, visit www.tweed.nsw.gov.au/Asbestos or call (02) 6670 2400. Testing kits are available for purchase and drop off at the Murwillumbah Civic Centre.
