

Sidney Nolan, Ned Kelly, 1946 from the Ned Kelly series 1946-1947, enamel paint on composition board, 90.80 x 121.50 cm. Gift of Sunday Reed 1977. National Gallery of Australia, Canberra.

The Tweed to host Sidney Nolan's Ned Kelly series

After travelling the country, the National Gallery of Australia's collection of Sidney Nolan's iconic 'Ned Kelly' paintings is making a final stop at Tweed Regional Gallery before returning to Canberra.

For the first time in 16 years, the exhibition is touring Australia in its entirety and has covered four states and one territory, giving Australians across the country the chance to experience some of the most famous and poignant masterpieces of 20th century Australian art.

Sidney Nolan's Ned Kelly series will be on display at Tweed Regional Gallery from Friday 19 March to Sunday 22 August 2021.

From 1946-47, Nolan developed an original and starkly simplified image of Ned Kelly, which quickly became a national symbol - part of the shared iconography of Australia.

The National Gallery of Australia acquired its first Ned Kelly work from the series in 1972, Death of Sergeant Kennedy at Stringybark Creek, 1946. In 1977, Sunday Reed donated 25 of the 27 paintings to the National Gallery of Australia from Nolan's first exhibited Kelly series. Together, these 26 paintings provide a masterclass on Australian art history and the development of a new figuration and landscape painting in Australian art.

"It is essential that all Australians have equal opportunity to see these remarkable works," National Gallery of Australia's Director Nick Mitzevich said.

"By experiencing this iconic group of paintings with their radical style, and anti-establishment mythology firsthand, new generations will gain insight into the work of one of our most well-known artists."

Tweed Regional Gallery Director Susi Muddiman OAM said the Gallery was thrilled to exhibit Sidney Nolan's work.

"It is such a privilege to be able to bring this iconic and important series to the Tweed Region," Ms Muddiman said.

"Nolan's 1946-47 paintings on the theme of the outlaw bushranger Ned Kelly are one of the greatest series of 20th century Australian paintings. The themes of identity, individuality, a strong sense of place and vivid brushwork have cemented this series in Australia's psyche of national identity."

This is a ticketed exhibition. Tickets are available for purchase by visiting trg-sidneynolan-nk-admission.eventbrite.com.au or follow the links at artgallery.tweed.nsw.gov.au

This touring exhibition is supported by the Australian Government through Visions of Australia and the National Collecting Institutions Touring and Outreach Program.

On Friday 19 March 2021, 5-7pm (NSW time), the Gallery will welcome Nick Mitzevich, Director, National Gallery of Australia, for a special opening of Sidney Nolan's Ned Kelly series. Join Nick for a floortalk to gain insight into this iconic series. Tickets are $30 and booking is essential: trg-sidneynolan-nk-opening.eventbrite.com.au

Council team researches little-known endangered frog

Tweed Shire Council's Environmental Scientists David Hannah and Greg Lollback, and ecologist Michele Lockwood have researched and co-authored a paper on one of the Tweed's little-known species.

Known to occupy permanent streams within the Tweed, Mixophyes iteratus, commonly known as the giant barred frog, is listed as endangered under state and federal legislations.

Council's environmental scientists (Engineering Division) have encountered the species in the past when conducting environment surveys on Council infrastructure maintenance and upgrades. However, little is known about the species.

"For some time, we have wanted to further understand the distribution and habitats preferred by the barred frog," Mr Hannah said.

"It's important to increase our knowledge to ensure informed environmental mitigation measures can be used when building and maintaining Council infrastructure.

"A larger picture of distribution within the Tweed would also give a wider context of the potential impact works may have on

Briefings for prospective Council candidates

Are you interested in running for Council this year?

Council will host a series of candidate briefings in March and April to provide a thorough understanding of the role of Councillor, ahead of the NSW Local Government elections on Saturday 4 September 2021.

The four briefing sessions will be hosted by former Mayor of Lismore Jenny Dowell OAM, with the support of Council and Local Government NSW. Potential candidates need only attend one session, with the same content to be repeated at each event, as follows:

- Tuesday 23 March: 1-4pm and 5.30-8.30pm at the Council Chambers, Murwillumbah Administration Office
- Tuesday 27 April: 1-4pm and 5.30-8.30pm at the Harvard Room, Tweed Heads Administration Office

Councillors elected this September will serve a reduced three-year term after the 2020 election was postponed by 12 months due to COVID-19. The future schedule of council elections will not be impacted by this change, and the subsequent election will proceed in September 2024.

Prospective candidates interested in attending the candidate briefings should register by following the booking links at www.tweed.nsw.gov.au/elections

For further questions, call Council on 02 6670 2400.

Life going swimmingly at 84

Murwillumbah local Margaret Hosie recently celebrated her 84th birthday doing what she loves - swimming at Murwillumbah's Tweed Regional Aquatic Centre (TRAC).

Margaret, who was born in Holland, moved from Melbourne to Murwillumbah in 2018 to be closer to her daughter, Francine Hosie.

Margaret enjoys walking her dogs, going to the bowls twice a week and never fails to show up for her swimming sessions at Murwillumbah TRAC three times a week.

When complimented about how fit Margaret is at 84, Francine was quick to remark, "How do you think I feel trying to keep up with her!"

When asked if she has a message she would like to send to Tweed residents Margaret said: "I enjoy coming to TRAC, the staff are always kind, friendly and helpful".

Next time you're at TRAC Murwillumbah, you're likely to see Margaret's smiling face, so remember to say hi.

Council's Director Engineering David Oxenham congratulated Greg, Michele and David for having their work published by one of Australia's leading scientific publications, CSIRO Publishing.

"They are now expanding their research to investigate this species' distribution and habitat on a broader scale throughout the Tweed," Mr Oxenham said.

"The research, including fieldwork, data analysis and writing of the paper was undertaken within their own time. Their passion and dedication is a testament of their value to Tweed Shire Council.

"It's great to be part of a team that has a history of conducting scientific research and appreciate its value for the purpose of environmental impact assessment and conservation. The publication of this research is a good example of this."

The research article titled, New information on site occupancy and detection rate of Mixophyes iteratus and implications for management is published in Pacific Conservation Biology. To find out more about the research, go to doi.org/10.1071/PC20075
