

Tweed Shire Council wishes to recognise the generations of the local Aboriginal people of the Bundjalung Nation who have lived in and derived their physical and spiritual needs from the forests, rivers, lakes and streams of this beautiful valley over many thousands of years as the traditional owners and custodians of these lands.

Council's Customer Contact Centre team members are here to help you, serving the community for 10 years.

Celebrating 10 years of service with a smile

Tweed Shire Council's Customer Contact Centre celebrates 10 years of serving the community this month.

Responding to hundreds of customer enquiries each day, the team has developed a reputation for friendly professionalism and earned the respect of the local community.

It's not an easy job and team members have often been called upon to go beyond the call of duty.

Program Leader Customer Service, Anthony Morton recalls that after Cyclone Debbie in 2017 his team worked tirelessly answering a deluge of calls in the wake of the devastation (11,063 in May).

"Even in the toughest and busiest times, the team have always kept the best interests of the community at heart and I am proud of their professionalism and what they have achieved," he said.

Mr Morton said there have been many times when his staff have gone beyond their duties to care for the community. They include escorting residents safely to their cars, providing rest and first aid, delivering urgent correspondence and offering a friendly ear more times than he can count.

In 10 years Council's Contact Centre have managed more than:

- 800,000 incoming phone calls
- 350,000 front counter transactions such as receipts and applications
- 5000 webchats (since May 2020).

Each day, this equates to an average of more than 300 calls, 145 counter transactions, 15 webchats and plenty of Facebook messages.

"Our team are often the first people that Tweed residents will speak with when they have something that needs attention," Mr Morton said. "It might not always be a Council matter, but we will always try to find them a solution and do it with a smile."

Council facilities reopen after lockdown lifts

The majority of Council facilities have reopened again after the NSW Government announced a lifting of the snap lockdown for the Tweed and Byron local government areas.

Stay at home orders were lifted from midnight on Tuesday after NSW Health today confirmed no community transmission had occurred after a COVID-positive person visited the region.

However, services remain subject to tight restrictions to ensure the safety of residents until double vaccination target levels are met in coming weeks and months. (For more information, visit the NSW Government website - www.nsw.gov.au/covid-19/rules/affected-regions.)

The Queensland Government responded quickly to the announcement, reinstating its non-restricted border zone rules which existed prior to the latest snap lockdown. These will come into effect from 1 am Wednesday.

This means Tweed and Byron shire residents and Queenslanders travelling to these areas will be able to cross the border for more reasons. (For a list of permitted reasons, visit the Queensland Health website - www.qld.gov.au/health.)

As a result of the easing of restrictions, Council opened the majority of its customer-facing facilities from Wednesday, including:

- Tweed Regional Aquatic Centres (TRAC) at Murwillumbah, Kingscliff and South Tweed reopening with all programs, including squads, aqua aerobics and slides operating, with diving boards remaining shut
- Starting Block Café at TRAC Murwillumbah returns to normal operations
- Library branches at Murwillumbah, Tweed Heads and Kingscliff return to normal opening hours

- Brett Street CAFÉ at Tweed Heads returns to normal operations
- Stotts Creek Resource Recovery Centre (tip) returns to normal operations for domestic and commercial operations. Tweed JUNKtion Tip Shop to remain closed.
- Tweed Holiday Parks return to normal operations
- Customer Service Counters at Murwillumbah and Tweed Heads reopening at 9am
- Tweed Regional Museum returns to normal operations
- Tweed Regional Gallery & Margaret Olley Art Centre returns to normal operations
- Community centres at Banora Point and South Tweed, South Sea Islander Room, Harvard Room, and Kingscliff Hall return to normal operations
- Council-approved community markets, including at Kingscliff, SALT Village, Pottsville, Murwillumbah and Tweed Heads may reopen with COVID-safe plans in place.

The next Council meeting on Thursday 7 October will return to normal operations and will be held in the Harvard Room at Tweed Heads Administration Office. Anyone wishing to attend in person must pre-book their seats due to capacity restrictions. The meeting will also be livestreamed. Details on how to book or join the livestream are available on Council's website.

Keep up to date with closures and service impacts on Council's COVID-19 Emergency Dashboard - emergency.tweed.nsw.gov.au/coronavirus.

Exhibition untangles the 'entangled'

For the last 10 years, Northern Rivers-based artist Charlotte Haywood has been exploring ideas across time, people and place.

Her new exhibition Entangled will be on display at Tweed Regional Gallery until 28 November 2021.

Haywood works across a diverse range of mediums, including woven textiles, sculpture, installation, experimental architecture, film, theatre, sound, taste and linguistics.

Her work investigates ancient and emerging living systems in light of biodiversity and coexistence.

Her latest project Here + Now (2021), created for the Brisbane City Botanic Gardens, will be included in the exhibition. Featuring bamboo and neon pink signs, the work raises the question: what are the 'signs' in the landscape? Haywood references the Indigenous calendar plants, which for thousands of years have been used to signify oncoming seasons through bloomings, migration or fruitful indicators in the landscape. She describes the work as a "whacky blend of pop botanica, 'utopia' and phenomena"; highlighting the authority of Indigenous ecological knowledge.

Gallery Director Susi Muddiman OAM said: "Charlotte is an exciting contemporary artist whose practice is incredibly layered and diverse. I've no doubt visitors will become immersed in the tactile and thought-provoking nature of this exhibition."

Council is calling for expressions of interest in joining a Community Working Group to provide input and help shape the Live and Local project.

Live and Local supports music sector

If you are interested in live music and would like to help shape the growth of the sector, Council would like to hear from you.

Council is launching Live and Local Tweed which aims to support the growth of the local live music sector, especially after the industry has been hit so hard by COVID-19 restrictions.

Live and Local Tweed has 3 key elements:

- A series of professional development workshops,
- A free micro-festival / small scale music gigs in local venues,
- An industry forum event to support consideration for the music sector across relevant Council plans, policies and strategies.

Council's Cultural Planner, Dave Burgener said the live music sector has been one of the hardest hit industries during the past year and the Live and Local Tweed program aims to stimulate employment opportunities for musicians, particularly young and emerging artists.

Council is partnering with the Live Music Office and will be collaborating with peak bodies such as Music NSW and APRA AMCOS who will both contribute to the project.

You can express your interest in joining a Community Working Group to provide input and help shape the project and to nominate visit the Live and Local Tweed page at www.yoursaytweed.com.au Applications close by 11:59 pm on Monday 4 October 2021.

Additional information about the dates, times, and content of the program will be announced in the coming months.

Live and Local Tweed is presented by Tweed Shire Council in partnership with the Live Music Office and APRA AMCOS.

Notification of registration of interest for Aboriginal stakeholders

NGH Pty Ltd (NGH) has been contracted by Tweed Shire Council (TSC) (Civic and Cultural Centre, 10-14 Tumbulgum Road, Murwillumbah NSW 2484) to undertake an Aboriginal Cultural Heritage Assessment (ACHA) and if necessary, apply for an Aboriginal Heritage Impact Permit (AHIP) application for several proposed Council infrastructure projects at various locations in the Fingal Village area of Fingal Head located in the Tweed Shire Local Government Area.

The Study Area for the proposed infrastructure projects includes numerous land parcels and sections of Fingal Road, Chitticks Lane, Bambery Street, Queen Street, Main Road, Healy Lane and King Street. Refer to Figure 1 below. It is noted that the study area for this ACHA is in close proximity but distinct from another ACHA currently being undertaken for TSC in Fingal Head which is centered on Fingal Head Holiday Park. The study area associated with this ACHA is south of the Fingal Head Holiday Park ACHA study area and is centered on Fingal Village. The Study Area also includes sections of Fingal Road, Chitticks Lane, Bambery Street, Queen Street, Main Road, Healy Lane and King Street.

The purpose of the consultation with Aboriginal people is to assist the proponent (TSC) in the preparation of the ACHA and to be involved in the consultation as part of the lodgment of an AHIP application should it be required. In order to fulfil the requirements, set out in the Aboriginal Cultural Heritage Consultation Requirements for Proponents 2010, NGH is seeking interested Aboriginal parties who hold cultural knowledge of the study area to register their interest in the consultation process for the project and to assist in the determination of cultural significance of any Aboriginal objects or places subject to the application. Registrations should be provided in writing to:

NGH Pty Ltd
T3 Level 7, 348 Edward Street
Brisbane QLD 4000

Or via email to:

chelsea.j@nghconsulting.com.au

Closing date for registration is 13 October 2021.

Free up room in your bins

Looking for more room in your residential bins?

Here's some handy tips:

- Crush/flatten recyclables before putting them in the yellow bin, such as milk bottles, egg cartons and cereal boxes.
- Place cardboard boxes in green bin - no tape, plastic or staples.
- Take eligible drink containers to Return and Earn sites instead of placing in recycling bin. You can collect separately, post on community Facebook pages for someone to collect or save for your child or neighbour's child to collect and earn pocket money or donate.

Not sure what goes in what bin? Follow our handy guides on each of our bin pages www.tweed.nsw.gov.au/bin-services-collection

Visit Council's website to find many ways you can free up room in your residential bins.

What if there were no butts?

Butt Free Tweed - a community project aimed at keeping cigarette butts and discarded bits of plastic out of local waterways - is proving to be an outstanding success.

Council partnered with Positive Change for Marine Life (PCFML) and North East Waste (NEWaste) to install 8 dedicated 'ciggie butt bins' (known as enviropoles), in litter hotspots in Tweed Heads.

PCFML volunteers then conducted a clean-up of the sites (pre COVID-19 restrictions), taking an audit of what was collected. From the 8 sites, volunteers collected 8.24 kg of litter and rubbish.

This included a staggering 2657 cigarette butts (all recycled), hundreds of other pieces of plastic, and nearly 100 metres of discarded fishing line.

This project is a NSW Environment Protection Authority - Waste Less Recycle More initiative funded from the waste levy.

Tweed Toad Busters to tackle cane toad problem

Calling all cane toad warriors - an army of volunteers is being sought to help fight the steady march of cane toads across the Tweed Coast.

Tweed Shire Council has joined forces with not-for-profit community environment group Watergum to launch the Tweed Toad Busters program aimed at stopping the advance of cane toads on the Tweed Coast before they have a chance to breed and multiply.

The citizen science program will run from October 2021 to April 2022 and will target cane toads at every life stage, from tadpole trapping to toad busting.

Toad busting involves collecting adult specimens in buckets and removing them from the environment. Those adults are then used by Watergum to produce pheromone lures which attract cane toad tadpoles into special traps.

The first event of the program will be held online at 7 pm on Thursday 7 October. It will involve an online training session via a Facebook live event, followed by a week-long challenge to compete against others to collect the most cane toads, with great prizes up for grabs for the winners.

Participants will learn about cane toads and their devastating impacts on the environment and will also be trained in effective and humane control methods.

If you're interested in getting involved, go to watergum.org/canetoads/ or tweed.nsw.gov.au/cane-toads

For more information, email canetoads@watergum.org or follow Watergum's Facebook page to stay in the loop.
