Murwillumbah Civic Centre's Customer Service area features an uplifting display of bras decorated by Council staff for Breast Cancer Awareness Month. Taking up challenge were Carole Goodwin, Tracey Stinson, Kathie Dwyer, Liz Collyer and Tanya Erezuma. Visit the Murwillumbah Council Chamber foyer for a community morning tea on 25 October for the Cancer Council's Pink Ribbon day.

Budd pontoon shifting to safer site

Work will begin soon to upgrade and relocate the pontoon at Budd Park in Murwillumbah.

The $100,000 project will repair the structure, move it 50m to the west, and construct a new access path. The new location and path will make it safer and easier to access the 12m-long pontoon.

The State Government announced last year it would provide $660,000 in funding for boating infrastructure projects in the Tweed, including the Budd Park pontoon, through the NSW Boating Now program.

Pedestrian stop/go at Kingscliff

Stop/go flagmen will be managing the flow of pedestrians across the footbridge at the Kingscliff Bridge construction site on Thursday, 20 October 2016) as a crane works to lift the new traffic bridge girders into place.

Both pedestrians and cyclists will be held back while the crane is working overhead. Construction of the $4 million Kingscliff Bridge remains on track for the bridge to be open to traffic before Christmas.

"We are on schedule to have one lane of the new bridge open to traffic controlled by temporary traffic lights before Christmas," Council's Manager Infrastructure Delivery Tim Mackney said.

Kennedy Drive delays

The final task of a $9 million upgrade to Kennedy Drive, Tweed Heads West, begins on Monday 24 October when contractors move in to reconstruct the road pavement.

This work will take at least two weeks (to Friday 4 November, inclusive) as it entails digging out and removing the existing road and replacing it with deep-lift asphalt before applying the final wearing surface.

Traffic conditions over this time will become more difficult, with frequent and long delays.

While one lane of traffic will be maintained in both directions, priority will be given to trucks delivering the more than 3500 tonne of asphalt which has to be applied when still hot.

Motorists are encouraged to modify their travel plans during these two weeks and leave early or use the alternate route via Bilambil and Terranora roads, which will add up to 20 minutes to a journey.

Seed story and crafts

A screening of the documentary Open Sesame: The story of seeds will begin a fortnight of activities at Murwillumbah Library to celebrate the first anniversary of its community seed library.

It will screen on Monday 24 October at 10am and again on Thursday 27 October at 5.30pm.

Daniel Sheridan from Natural Bridge Organics will speak at the Library on Saturday 29 October at 10am about techniques to save seeds.

Murwillumbah Library is launching weekly kids' craft afternoons each Thursday at 3.30pm, starting with a sand art workshop on 27 October. Children aged seven and over are invited to attend, to create masterpieces using coloured sand, and bookings are essential.

Contact the library on (02) 6670 2427 for information about both events.

Koala information day

Learn how to identify and assist a sick or injured koala by attending a free information day at Hastings Point on Saturday 5 November.

The Koala Information Day will show people how to establish and maintain koala habitat on their properties, and explain how Council is helping landholders create koala corridors.

Friends of the Koala, Conservation Volunteers and Council are working together to hold the event at the BIG4 North Star Holiday Resort from 10am to 1.30pm.

Lunch is provided and registration is required by 24 October by contacting Laura White at lwhite@cva.org.au or on (02) 66816169.

Tweed Shire Council elections and a Constitutional Referendum on Councillor numbers will be held on Saturday 29 October.

TRAC Kingscliff Games athletes honoured

Tweed Regional Aquatic Centre Kingscliff's impressive list of international athletes has been officially expanded, with an unveiling of signs to celebrate its most recent Olympian and Paralympians.

The three Rio Games competitors are now among eight Olympians who have been based at TRAC Kingscliff for their swimming training – joining a celebrated honour roll that also includes former Australian swimming team captain Chris Fydler, Josh Watson, Dyana Calub, Sophie Edington and Lara Davenport.

Abood now lives in Sydney but trained at the Kingscliff pool from when he was eight years old. He returned to Kingscliff last week to celebrate his 30th birthday with family and friends, proudly revealing the bronze medal he won as a member of the 4 × 100m freestyle relay team.

"Kinky pool was always a great place to train because it has such a nice environment," he said.

"It's really relaxed here – and the more relaxed you are, the better you float. This is also a beautiful setting; from four of the lanes you can look out across to Cook Island. It might not be the most flashy pool, but building the most modern swimming complex doesn't necessarily mean you'll have the best place to train."

Abood said he had always aspired to have his own Olympian sign on display, and had been hopeful he would earn a spot at the London Olympics in 2012.

An Australian representative at the Commonwealth Games and world championships, Abood says he has now achieved everything he set out to do in swimming and will evaluate whether he sets his sights on Tokyo in 2020.

It is a similar story for Chaffey, a relative veteran of elite paratriathlon competition and multiple world champion. The Bilambil Heights resident placed fourth in his category at the Rio Games and, while disappointed he finished outside the medals, was satisfied he gave everything he had in the race.

"The first three men were all incredibly fast on the day," he said. "At 41 years of age, I'm definitely keen to keep going for the Gold Coast 2018 Commonwealth Games and I'll then decide whether to have another crack at Tokyo."

Chaffey said he was always amazed by the large number of Olympians and world championship swimmers who trained at TRAC Kingscliff.

"It's certainly a great honour having my name among the likes of Chris Fydler."

Wilson is at the other end of her sporting career. The 18-year-old has been swimming since she was five but the Rio Paralympics were her first international competition.

Not expecting to earn a berth, she had excelled at her qualifying events and went on to impress in the 50m and 100m freestyle, 200m individual medley and 100m breaststroke races for short statured people.

The Kingscliff student was also a finalist as a member of the 4 × 50m freestyle relay team.

CLARIFICATION OF DEVELOPMENT APPLICATION DA16/0707

Regularising of Existing Markets – Jack Bayliss and Lions Park, Kingscliff

Council has received feedback regarding this recently submitted application which is on public exhibition until Wednesday 19 October 2016.

This feedback has indicated that the documentation submitted with the application, specifically the Statement of Environmental Effects (SEE), lacks clarity on the location of the day time and night time markets within the two subject sites.

Council would like to confirm on behalf of the applicant that the 'day time' markets would continue to operate north of the Kingscliff Bowls Club within Jack Bayliss Park while 'night time' markets would continue to operate in Lions Park south of the Cudgen Headland SLSC.

A revised Statement of Environmental Effects as been lodged by the applicant and is available for viewing on Council's DA tracking tool.
