Have your say on how Council delivers services

The Tweed community has spoken with a strong response to Council's Service Planning Survey in a recent special edition of the Tweed Link and through Council's Community Engagement Network displays at events such as the Murwillumbah Show and Tweed River Festival.

The survey is part of the 'Tweed the Future is Ours' initiative and can be accessed online through www.YourSayTweed.com.au or can be dropped in or picked up in person at Council's Murwillumbah or Tweed Civic Centres.

The Community Engagement Network team will be at further Tweed events in coming weeks including the Christmas Tree lightings at Murwillumbah, Tweed Heads and Kingscliff.

"More than 400 responses have already been received with community members taking the opportunity to rate the importance of Council services and their satisfaction with how they're being delivered," Council's Director, Corporate Services, Liz Collyer said.

"The survey is also your chance to tell Council your views on the Tweed of the future; your ideas and vision to help make our community even better tomorrow than it is today."

Five years of work and Kennedy Drive completed

The final stage of a $9 million upgrade to Kennedy Drive, Tweed Heads West, was completed on Friday despite heavy rains on Wednesday night and Thursday threatening to further delay the project.

With just 1½ days to go, the overnight rain delayed the start of the second day of applying the final wearing surface to the northern lanes, pushing the job's completion from Friday at midday to late Friday afternoon.

The newly completed road will be line-marked one night this week, bringing to an end five years of work on this major arterial road.

Ancillary works will continue at the layby near Pioneer Park but these will not affect traffic flow.

The Kennedy Drive upgrade began in 2011, with reconstruction of the road from Gray Street to Limosa Road. Stage 2, from Gray Street to the Pacific Motorway, began in October 2014 and was completed at the end of April 2015.

Then, this final stage, from the bridge to Limosa Road, began at the end of April this year.

The upgrade, jointly funded by Tweed Shire Council, the Australian Government and the NSW Government, had to be delivered in stages to reduce the impact on residents and motorists in this highly constrained work environment.

Kennedy Drive carries up to 20,000 cars a day and is the most direct route in and out of Bilambil Heights.

The upgrade will improve road safety, reduce the incidence of contact with overhead power poles, reduce road noise and reduce surface flooding during minor rainfall events.

The benefits delivered include:

- An additional traffic lane, achieving two lanes in each direction from about 300m east of the bridge to the Pacific Motorway on-ramp
- New kerb, gutter, footpaths and maximum-width driveways for the length of Kennedy Drive
- Bigger stormwater drains and additional pits to let surface water get away quickly, and
- Extra contingency in the water reticulation system, with the duplication of the main line on both sides of Kennedy Drive and the removal of cross service connections from beneath the roadway.

Business 'looking up'

Centrepoint Arcade owner Tom Senti is leading a push for Murwillumbah businesses to refresh the main street and highlight heritage features with the help of Council's 'LookUP' project.

Mr Senti (pictured) was one of the grant recipients of the inaugural Murwillumbah commercial area and main street heritage conservation project last year.

The LookUP grants are aimed at improving and invigorating the overall presentation of the commercial precinct through best-practice maintenance of its heritage significance and are offered on a dollar-for-dollar basis.

Mr Senti used the grant funding to paint the historic arcade shop fronts, paint the under awning and install new lighting.

"This is a chance for local businesses to take advantage of the opportunity Council is providing to improve the presentation of the town," Mr Senti said.

"If it looks refreshed, inviting and interesting, more people are going to visit town and spend money and support our businesses."

Suitable projects for LookUP grants may include painting, lighting, timber window repair, conservation of tilework or brickwork and mortar repair.

Grant applications are open until 30 November 2016. Further information and application forms are available at www.tweed.nsw.gov.au/Lookup, or contact the Strategic Planning and Urban Design unit on (02) 6670 2503.

Collaboration to continue

A peak steering committee charged with the restoration of valuable koala habitat on the Tweed Coast has met for the last time, but its contribution to koala protection looks set to flourish.

The four-year Tweed Byron Koala Connections project was wrapped up last month, with a final meeting of its committee members from the Tweed and Byron shires, but further collaboration is planned to build upon its progress.

The project's unprecedented level of cooperation between experts in the region led to the planting of more than 76,000 trees in 120 priority locations in the two shires. Both Councils worked together to secure a $2.1 million grant through the Australian Governments Biodiversity Fund.

"One of the unique and highly important aspects of the project was the active participation of key community groups and organisations," the Tweed Byron Koala Connections Project Manager, Scott Hetherington, said.

"Representatives of Friends of the Koala, Brunswick Valley Landcare, NSW National Parks and Wildlife Service, Tweed Landcare and Local Land Services formed the committee and played a critical role in its delivery.

"The group worked with their own organisations to promote the project to landowners and identify opportunities to support and improve project outcomes through collaboration. They also provided specialist input to specific parts of the project including the Tweed Coast Koala Fire Management Plan, Koala Connections Forum and the Tallest Tree competition."

The importance of the committee's role was acknowledged at the final meeting and has been recognised through awards such as the Green Globes and Banksia Sustainability Awards.

Tweed Byron Koala Connections committee members met officially for the final time last month.

Fiery discussion at Regional Gallery

James Guppy doesn't paint a pretty picture of capitalism and his trademark fusion of business meets beauty will come under the microscope when the Northern Rivers artist speaks at Tweed Regional Gallery & Margaret Olley Art Centre on Sunday 20 November.

Join the artist for an exhibition talk in the Anthony Gallery to discuss Guppy's current exhibition Flagrante Delicto, a latin term which roughly translates as 'in blazing offence'.

The Caught in the Act exhibition talk, starting at 2pm, will be followed by an illustrated talk in the Frances Mills Education Centre, where Guppy will share images and inspiration of earlier works.

It is 40 years since Guppy completed his Honours Degree in Economics but that background continues to colour his view of the world.

"While I turned away from that discipline long ago, I can't help but watch the business of the world through that particular lens. I must say I'm not impressed," he said.

"I want to create a tension between the ideas surrounding contemporary capitalism and the pre-modernist notions of beauty. I hope it makes the actions of these men even more reprehensible."

Flagrante Delicto is on exhibition at the Gallery until 12 February 2017.

Road closures for bridge facelift

Painting contractors will be giving the Twin Towns pedestrian bridge over Wharf Street a facelift, starting next Monday (21 November).

To clean and paint the bridge and replace roof sheets, Wharf Street will be closed from 10pm to 5am for three nights to erect scaffolding over the roadway and for two nights at the end to dismantle scaffolding.

During the three-night closure next week, all traffic will be diverted via Bay and Stuart streets. Also, the bus stop in Wharf Street will be relocated to Bay Street, with flagmen directing bus passengers to the temporary stop.

Once the scaffolding is in place, Wharf Street will be reopened to traffic full-time, with both vehicles and pedestrians passing beneath. However, there will be short intermittent closures, managed by stop/slow flagmen, to allow machinery to get in and out of the worksite.

The bridge facelift could take up to a month.

Workers screed the deck of the new Kingscliff Bridge, taking shape over Cudgen Creek. Construction of the new traffic bridge over Cudgen Creek at Kingscliff achieved another significant milestone last week when the main concrete deck was poured. Council workers and contractors poured and finished off 180 tonne of concrete in a little more than three hours on Monday morning. Meanwhile, work to build up both road approaches is continuing. Weather permitting, other tasks that need to be completed to open the bridge to traffic about mid-December include constructing the kerbs, affixing the traffic barriers, completing the road approaches and making some alterations to the cycleway.

Public reserve upgrade work begins in Tyalgum

Work has begun on a $200,000 upgrade to the public reserve in the heart of Tyalgum.

Earthworks last week kicked off the Tyalgum Trust Public Reserve upgrade, which will include an expansion of the youth precinct and the installation of new shelters and barbecues.

The youth precinct includes new skate street equipment, improved half-court basketball facilities and playground equipment.

The seven-week upgrade is Stage 1 of a two-part project in Tyalgum. Stage 2 will create a lookout at the village's former waste transfer station site and is scheduled for the new year.

Council worked with the Tyalgum Community Consultation Group to design the reserve upgrade, which is the result of public discussions following the closure of the Tyalgum Waste Transfer station last year. Low patronage of the transfer station and high costs led to its closure and Council engaged with the community to determine how the site and operating costs could be reallocated to better benefit the local community.

Those discussions led to the ongoing creation of a dedicated lookout at the transfer station site and the injection of funds to improve Tyalgum Trust Public Reserve. The reallocated transfer station operating funds have been complemented by $20,000 through the Federal Stronger Communities Program and an additional $50,000 provided by Council through funding for the Tweed Youth Strategy and Action Plan, which identified the need for better facilities in Tyalgum for young people.

Access and Inclusion Awards to honour advocate

The Tweed Shire Access and Inclusion Awards are enjoying a real purple patch – with both a growing number of award nominations and a distinctive theme for this year's ceremony.

The annual awards – to celebrate contributions by individuals and groups to make the Tweed more accessible for everyone – have been given a 'purple' theme this year to celebrate the introduction of a new award honouring a life-long advocate for universal inclusion, Faye Druett.

The awards night will be held on Wednesday, 30 November at the Stars Room, Twin Towns Services Club and will include the inaugural Faye Druett Advocacy Award, following her death in February this year. The room will be decorated in purple and category winners will receive purple trophies.

"Purple was Faye's favourite colour and this is our salute to a wonderful woman who served with us on the Tweed Equal Access Advisory Committee and did so much great work for people with disability or with accessibility issues," one of the award committee members, Wendy Gilbert, said.

Ms Druett spent most of her life campaigning for the rights, independence and inclusion of people with disability and brought a mountain of experience to the Equal Access Advisory Committee, which organises the annual awards.

She was a founding member and CEO of 'Person With Disability Australia', advocating for people in institutions to reside in their community and have greater choice over their own lives. As a personal advocate, she helped a young woman move from an institution into supported accommodation in the community, and was her guardian and advocate for more than 20 years.

Her working career included launching and implementing the Disability Discrimination Act 1992 and made headlines when she lodged a complaint under the Act after she was called up for jury duty but was denied the opportunity because she could not access the jury box.

Award organisers are also celebrating the continuing growth of nominations each year, with more than 30 received this year. The awards were launched in 2013 to celebrate achievement and innovation towards creating an accessible and inclusive community. This year they incorporate categories for advocacy, individuals, businesses, sport and leisure, education and the Belonging award for the inclusion of children – as well as an overall winner for 2016.

Tickets for the presentation ceremony, which begins at 6pm, can be arranged by contacting Council on (02) 6670 2442 or at kcollins@tweed.nsw.gov.au or for more information, visit www.tweed.nsw.gov.au/AccessInclusionAwards

River survey closing

Just a few days remain for Tweed residents to share how they use the Tweed River and how the estuary should be managed, with a community survey set to close this Saturday.

About 500 people have so far completed the survey, which will help produced a new Tweed River Estuary Coastal Management Program and ensure it is in line with public priorities and expectations.

The survey can be completed online at yoursaytweed.com.au/tweed-river-estuary, where people can also share their stories and photos of the river.

Printed copies of the survey are available at Council's Murwillumbah and Tweed Heads offices and the libraries.
