Tweed Shire Council Crest

The Coat of Arms has a central shield displaying symbolic representations of the sea, Captain Cook's ship "Endeavour", the shire's most prominent geographical feature, Mount Warning, and the rising sun. For six months of the year Mount Warning is the first place on the Australian mainland to receive the sun's rays.

The shield is supported on each side by Albert lyrebirds, which are indigenous to the shire. The shield is surmounted by an armorial helmet topped with the seedpod of the diploglottis cambellii, commonly known as the "small leaved tamarind", and a sprig of blue knob orchid.

Below the shield is a ribbon in the Shire's colours of green and gold with the motto "In pursuit of Excellence".

The design has been approved by the Kings of Arms of the Royal College of Heralds, Council has received the Letters Patent, the final deed of grant, which hangs in the Council Chambers in Murwillumbah.

Council's Floral Emblem is the Coolamon Tree

Syzygium moorei is a rare sub tropical rainforest tree, growing on volcanic soils in the Mount Warning area of north east New South Wales and south east Queensland, Australia. Common names include Coolamon, Watermelon Tree, Durobby and Robby; it is also called "rose apple".
