

Tweed Shire Council wishes to acknowledge the Ngandawal and Minyungbal speaking people of the Bundjalung Country, in particular the Goodjinburra, Tul-gi-gin and Moorung – Moobah clans, as being the traditional owners and custodians of the land and waters within the Tweed Shire boundaries. Council also acknowledges and respects the Tweed Aboriginal community's right to speak for its Country and to care for its traditional Country in accordance with its lore, customs and traditions.

Cooperation is key when using the boat ramp at Cudgen Creek.

Swimmers and boats at Cudgen Creek, Kingscliff

Even though the weather is cooling down, it doesn't stop people enjoying the beauty that is Cudgen Creek at Kingscliff.

Swimming, kayaking, fishing, boating – it's a go-to spot for locals and tourists alike. However, its popularity can also be its downfall.

Cudgen Creek boat ramp is a shared recreational space for both swimmers and vessel users. Cooperation is key.

The ramp is popular with boaties heading out to fish offshore and is also used to launch small vessels for exploring the creek. It also provides a convenient location for swimmers to access the water close to the Kingscliff CBD.

Points to remember (vessel users):

- Vessels users – if you're the skipper, you're responsible. This includes the use of cars and trailers on the ramp and navigating through this busy waterway.

- Keep a sharp lookout for swimmers and think ahead – the creek will be busy if you're returning to the ramp mid-morning on a sunny weekend!

Points to remember (swimmers):

- Boats have right of way on the boat ramp – anyone on the ramp or in the water should immediately move well away if a boat or trailer approaches.
- Ensure children are moved safely away to allow access.
- Boaties have the right to freely use this facility without their safety or that of swimmers being put at risk.
- You cannot expect to sunbathe undisturbed on the ramp – it is a shared space.

To keep all creek users safe we need to cooperate, be courteous and communicate.

Works start to repair major slip at Reserve Creek

There are welcome signs of progress at Reserve Creek Road to repair an extreme slip caused by the 2022 floods.

Local contractor See Civil Pty Ltd has now completed on-site establishment works including the placement of a portable site office, temporary barriers and safety protocols, and heavy machinery is arriving on site.

Early works to set up access ramps and ground investigations also started this week but were hampered by the weather.

Council's Flood Restoration team provided further approvals to SEE Civil Pty Ltd that works on the vital temporary side road can now commence, marking a critical step in the restoration journey.

SEE Civil has written to residents, advising of possible delays this Thursday and Friday 18 May and 19 May 2023 from 7 am to 5 pm as the contractors investigate an additional section of landslip approximately 200 metres from the main slip site.

The detailed design for the multimillion-dollar project is nearing 100% completion, pending final approval.

Council is working with others to prepare for, mitigate and build resilience to natural disasters while delivering a safe and connected local road network.

Get active and fill out survey to win

There's still time to complete the Tweed Shire Sport and Active Recreation Survey. But hurry – it closes on Friday 19 May.

This is your chance to help shape the future of sport and rec in the Tweed – and be in the chance to win a prize.

Let's make sport and active recreation more accessible and enjoyable for everyone.

Council manages more than 40 sports fields and centres across the Tweed, covering a range of sports including netball, basketball, tennis, hockey, AFL, rugby league, rugby union, soccer, cricket, swimming, skateboarding and croquet, while our beaches are home to very active surfing and surf lifesaving communities.

We are conducting a survey to better understand the needs and interests of the Tweed community in being physically active and in participating in sport across the Shire.

The survey will help identify how our community would like to be physically active, the sports that are most popular, the facilities that are most needed and the challenges that are being faced. Anyone who takes part in this survey will be in with a chance to win a 6-month family membership to Tweed Regional Aquatic Centres.

To complete the survey and for your chance to win, visit yoursaytweed.com.au/activercreation

On right track to preserve and celebrate our rail and cultural heritage

The Tweed section of the Northern Rivers Rail Trail has received a heritage award for its restoration of several bridges and tunnels as well as highlighting the history of local villages and the Aboriginal heritage of the region.

A commitment to preserving and celebrating the heritage of the Tweed section of the Northern Rivers Rail Trail (NRRT) has been acknowledged with an award at the prestigious National Trust Heritage Awards.

The Tweed section of the Northern Rivers Rail Trail took out first place in the Conservation – Landscape category of the Awards at a ceremony in Sydney on Friday 12 May.

The award is the first win for the project and underscores the success of the Tweed section of the Rail Trail which has already attracted thousands of residents and visitors since its opening on 1 March 2023.

The Northern Rivers Rail Trail was one of 17 outstanding projects acknowledged at the National Trust Heritage Awards – an annual celebration of exceptional heritage conservation practices.

NRRT Project Director Iain Lonsdale said the Rail Trail's win in the Conservation – Landscape category was testament to the commitment and dedication invested in preserving and showcasing the rail, natural and cultural heritage aspects of the Northern Rivers Rail Trail.

The Rail Trail's submission for the National Trust Heritage Awards outlined several key heritage components. Notably, it showcased a strong commitment to Aboriginal cultural heritage by integrating a range of Aboriginal stories along the trail as well as two captivating Welcome to Country statements, positioned at each end of the 24km Tweed section of the Rail Trail – all paying homage to and celebrating the Aboriginal heritage of the trail, villages and region.

Another heritage component is the rail heritage signage strategically placed along the trail, providing informative insights into the region's rail history and its enduring significance.

The restoration of the Tweed section's tunnels and bridges stands as one of the largest heritage components of the Rail Trail. Out of a total of 26 bridges, 16 were meticulously restored for Rail Trail users to traverse, while 10 were bypassed and retained for their inherent heritage value.

The Rail Trail features two tunnels—the Burringbar Range Tunnel, spanning an impressive 524 metres and showcasing the habitat of microbats and glow worms and the Hulls Road Tunnel, measuring 50 metres in length.

The revitalisation of the State heritage-listed Murwillumbah Railway Station also played a crucial role in securing the award.

Future heritage works at the Murwillumbah Railway Station include restoration of heritage items including the Barracks building, the water tank, water pump, turntable, crane and banana shed.

The 24km Tweed section is the first stage of the Northern Rivers Rail Trail which will eventually stretch 132 km from Murwillumbah to Casino in Northern NSW.

A happy milestone for the Tweed Link

Welcome to the 1300th issue of the Tweed Link! We're also celebrating reaching 4000 online subscribers, so it's a good time to take a look at how far we've come.

Many residents who have moved to the area – or may not have even been born – may not be aware that the Tweed Link has a long history, going right back to 1996. In fact, its story stretches across 2 centuries and 2 millennia!

From latest Council news to development applications, environmental tips to Council strategies that affect you, the Tweed Link has kept the Tweed community informed for nearly 27 years!

Looking back through the many issues over the years, what comes across is the passion Tweed residents have for their community and Council has a responsibility to continue to make the Tweed a great place to live, work and visit.

Issue one was published in a printed form on 12 November 1996 and has continued 49 weeks each year since.

The Tweed Link has been recognised as a leader in local government communications, winning a number of awards. These include an RH Dougherty Award from Local Government Association of NSW for Reporting to your Community in 2010 and a national award from Government Communications Australia in 2011 (Best Publication).

While 27 years is a long time given the massive changes in communications over that time (remember the fax, anyone?), survey results tell us that residents are still looking to the Tweed Link for Council information.

Keeping up with the changing times, distribution has gone from letterbox to in-box, however the Tweed Link is still available and enjoyed by many in a printed form in the Tweed Valley Weekly.

Join the 4000+ subscribers at tweed.nsw.gov.au/subscribe so you never miss an issue. While you're there you can also subscribe to e-newsletters, job alerts and program news.

The Tweed may have changed a lot in 27 years but the Tweed Link has been a constant, keeping you informed along the way.

Thank you to the Tweed community for embracing the Tweed Link and we hope you enjoy reading it for many years to come.

We hope you enjoy this look back at what was making news in Australia and the Tweed in 1996 when the first Tweed Link hit the streets.

Way back when ... 1996

- John Howard begins his 11 year stint as PM – the second longest in Australian history.
- Bob Carr is NSW Premier.

What was happening in the Tweed

The first Tweed link is published on 12 November 1996.

In 1996, the population of the Tweed Shire was 66,528, based on where people were on Census night in 1996. By comparison, the population in the 2021 census was 98,125.

Highlights of what was happening in November and December 1996 through the Tweed Link ...

- Council consults with the community on the naming of Minjungbal Drive at Tweed Heads.

The Tweed Link has been a constant feature for the Tweed community over the last 27 years.

- Murwillumbah Community Centre opens in Knox Park.
- Council receives a development application for 'Kings Beach' on 178 hectares of land stretching 3 km along the Tweed Coast.
- The Tweed's split bin recycling system delivered almost 4000 tonnes of recyclables after 18 months of operation.
- Banora Point tops Council's building approval statistics, with 215 applications valued at more than $6 million. Terranora and Bilambil Heights were also growing strongly.
- A network of significant remnant vegetation on 500 hectares between Pottsville and Hastings Point containing koala habitat, littoral rainforest and wetlands comes under Council control.
- Australia's richest portrait prize The Doug Moran Portrait Prize was on display at the Tweed River Regional Art Gallery, located in Tumbulgum Road, Murwillumbah.

... and in early 1997

- Tweed Shire 2000+ Strategic Plan comes into operation.
- The headline posed the question 'Kingscliff: Is it the next Noosa?'. New outdoor awnings were being constructed over outdoor dining at two cafés as part of the Main Street program.
- Construction of the Kingscliff bypass.
- A controversial proposal to build a 22-storey high rise at the old Markwells site in Tweed Heads is later downsized but the revised proposal was rejected by Council and then the State Government.
- Council investigates the expansion of the Kingscliff Sewage Treatment Plant to cater for the future development of South Kingscliff "... expected to house up to 25,000 people".
- Tweed Shire Council celebrates its 50th birthday following the amalgamation of the Municipality of Murwillumbah and Shire of Tweed in 1947.
- The NSW Land and Environment Court upholds a Council decision to refuse an Anglican school on agricultural land.
- Council proposes to lift the general rate by 13.1 per cent.
- Work to seal Clothiers Creek Road between the Tweed Coast and Mruwillumbah is completed.
- The administrator of Seagulls Rugby Leagues Club agrees to sell the Piggabeen Sports Complex and surrounding land to Council.
- The Tweed's first skatepark opened in Knox Park, Murwillumbah.

Free bush regeneration workshop for Tweed residents

A free workshop for residents who want to learn practical bush regeneration skills will be held in Murwillumbah on Wednesday 31 May from 9 am to 12:30 pm.

The workshop will focus on controlling weeds, ecological restoration and flora and fauna considerations. Weeds are a big threat to the Tweed's unique environment and can have serious economic and social impacts. Bush regeneration involves restoring native bushland to create healthy and more resilient ecosystems.

At the workshop, participants will learn about:

- controlling weeds
- ecological restoration
- flora and fauna considerations
- ecological restoration and disturbance, succession and resilience

- identifying invasive weeds
 - practical opportunities to assess weeds on site.
- Landholders with high conservation value habitat on their land, especially those with Conservation Agreements, are encouraged to attend.
- This workshop is part of Council's commitment to working together with the community to reduce our impact on the natural environment.
- The workshop is a collaborative effort between Tweed Shire Council and Tweed Landcare Inc..
- Council is funding the workshop, which is part of the Landcare-managed Filling the Biodiversity Gaps project assisted by the NSW Government through its Environmental Trust.
- Bookings are essential. Find out more and book online at bush-regeneration-workshop.eventbrite.com.au

Did you know there are Lyrebirds in the Tweed?

It's international Endangered Species Day on Friday 19 May and one of the Tweed's rarest birds is in the spotlight – the Albert's Lyrebird.

Council kicked off its Lowland Lyrebird Links project in 2019 to help conserve the species and increase the extent, condition and connectivity of Albert's Lyrebird habitat.

Albert's Lyrebird is a mostly ground-dwelling bird that can only be found within a small area of far south-eastern Queensland and north-eastern NSW.

Council is asking the community to listen for the call of the Albert's Lyrebird this May and June as part of its 8-year project to protect and map where the lyrebirds are in the Tweed.

By providing citizen science data you can help with this local threatened species' survival.

Albert's Lyrebirds are much more often heard than seen. Their calls can be heard echoing through the gullies of the last remaining pockets of lowland rainforest in the Tweed. You will need to get up early for their dawn chorus on a chilly winter morning, but it's well worth it.

Conserving these rare birds is one of the ways Council is working to protect the Tweed's internationally significant environment for future generations.

This project has been funded by the NSW Government's NSW Environmental Trust Saving Our Species Contestable Grants program.

Swimming pool and spa checks for homeowners

Council is calling on Tweed homeowners with swimming pools or spas to check their sewer and stormwater connections.

Water and Wastewater Business and Assets manager Anthony Burnham said many people didn't realise backwash from sand filters was wastewater and could harm our natural environment.

"The problem is when backwash illegally discharges to stormwater pipes – our stormwater system is designed to transport rainwater to waterways so any backwash that enters them will flow to our waterways and could cause harm," Mr Burnham said.

"If you own a sand filter, make sure that your backwash discharges to your sewer pipes, not your stormwater pipes. "Also, only use the valves that direct your backwash to your sewer pipes when you need to backwash. And if you have a cartridge filter, wash the cartridge on your lawn."

Mr Burnham added stormwater pipes were important for pools and spas, but only when it rains.

"Ensure any overflows from your pool or spa are directed to your stormwater pipes, not your sewer pipes," he said. "If overflows are directed to your sewer pipes, those pipes could get overloaded when it rains and you could end up with a nasty sewage overflow at your home.

"Doing these things will help minimise the impact of your pool or spa on our natural environment."

Visit tweed.nsw.gov.au/swimming-pools-spas for more pool and spa owning tips.
